

A

Part A: Read the sentence below. Then answer your partner's questions by stressing the appropriate word.

Eg: A: I think Peter wants to buy a new car. B: Who wants a new car? A: I think Peter wants to buy a new car.

I think Peter wants to buy a new car.

Part B: Listen to your partner's sentence then ask a question. Your partner should repeat the sentence stressing the appropriate word. The correct answer is on the right.

Ask you partner these questions:	Your partner should stress these words:
Who do you like?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.
Who likes the singer?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.
She's wearing a red hat?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress .
What color is it?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.
You love her?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.
You like the singer who is making a dress?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.
What did you say?	I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.

ESLdocs.com

B

Part A: Listen to your partner's sentence then ask a question. Your partner should repeat the sentence stressing the appropriate word. The correct answer is on the right.

Ask your partner these questions:	Your partner should stress these words:
Who wants a new car?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.
What does he want?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car .
What kind of car?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.
Peter will buy a new car?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.
Are you sure?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.
Who thinks Peter wants a new car?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.
Will Peter rent a new car?	I think Peter wants to buy a new car.

Part B: Read the sentence below. Then answer your partner's questions by stressing the appropriate word.

Eg: B: I said I like the singer wearing the red dress. A: Who do you like? B: I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.

I said I like the singer wearing the red dress.

ESLdocs.com